

The world is already in a sorry state. Why would you even consider letting people with questionable and/or no morals dictate what the public see and hear. There is already more than enough vulgarity on the TV and on the radio. What is so wrong with something that is good, clean and wholesome? What would you like your children exposed to? Please keep free speech free and allow the Christian radio stations to remain as they are. Are they doing any damage? Do they cause anybody pain and suffering? Do they broadcast anything that is degrading or negative? They are just trying to provide content that is encouraging and uplifting to a world that is in desperate need of something that is decent and helpful to anyone who would listen. If there are no restrictions on the negative and obscene things that can be broadcast, why should there be any restrictions on the good things that are broadcast?

I do have many more thoughts about this issue, but am going to stop here.
